1 Listen and Discuss

student's answer

Read the texts and underline the words or phrases that provide facts and/or opinions.

Collaborative learning promotes teamwork in class. Learners work together in small or large teams. However, it is not always easy for individuals to work effectively with others. Some learners prefer to work on their own first, then share ideas and information. Others are reluctant to share, because they want to impress the teacher with their performance. Negative competition in class tends to prevent students from working together, as they feel that they need to keep what they know to themselves, in order to gain credit against everyone else in class.

Who are they?
How do you feel about them?

What do people mean when they say that someone is "self-made"? They usually refer to success stories of individuals who have been able to recognize and utilize opportunities in their lives, for the purposes of improving their personal living standards, gaining respect in their community, and helping others. Can you think of successful "self-made" people in your country? Who are they? How do you feel about them?

Would you take a course on future studies?

Have you heard of the terms 'future studies' or 'strategic foresight'? Future Studies is an interdisciplinary field that studies and analyzes current and past changes with respect to tomorrow. For example, many people believe that the Earth's ecosystem will collapse in the near future, while others believe that it will survive. A foresight approach would analyze and highlight the assumptions underpinning such views. Would you choose to take a course on future studies at university?

Would you buy it?

Infomercials are longer television commercials that include demonstrations of product features and customer comments. A toll-free telephone number and/or website is included for potential buyers accompanied by "an offer you can't refuse".

2 Pair Work

A. Before you discuss each issue, brainstorm and think of:

- phrases you can use to express your opinion/ view
- ways to agree and disagree
- arguments to support your view

B. Which topic would you like to know more about? Why? Which topic do you find least interesting? Why?

3 Conversation

Listen and practice reading the conversation in pairs. Then act it out.

Adnan and Yahya are high school students. They are walking along the corridor, chatting during break.

Adnan: You've heard, haven't you? Our chemistry teacher has been transferred.

Yahya: It can't be true. I saw him yesterday. He can't have left. I thought he must still be teaching in our school.

Adnan: Yes, so did I. But apparently, he has been transferred to his home town. So someone else is going to be teaching chemistry.

Yahya: I am sorry to hear that.

Adnan: I saw someone new walking into the chemistry lab. He must be our new teacher...

Yahya: Let's have a look. No, it can't be. I don't believe it. He must be looking for me.

Adnan: What are you talking about? That must be our new teacher.

Yahya: No, it can't be.

Adnan: Oh, come on. Why not?

Yahya: Because that's my uncle! He must have known about this but never told me.

Adnan: He must have wanted to surprise you! It's good news, isn't it?

Your Turn

A. Role-play a conversation like the one above with a partner. Use phrases from the box.

Making Deductions

(present) It can't be true. / He must be ...

He must be ...ing ...

(past) He can't have ... (left.)

He must have ... (known) ... / He must have ... (wanted) ...

B. Read the situations and make deductions.

1. Your father's car is in the garage.

He must be home. / He can't have left.

2. Your cousin's bicycle is in the garden.

He/She ...

3. You can't turn on your new computer.

It ...

4. Your best friend is not at school today.

He/She ...

5. You are 15 minutes late. Your friends don't seem to be in the mall.

They ...

2. He must have arrived earlier. / He must be in. / He must have walked to the park.

3. It must be broken. / There must be a problem.

4. He/ She must be sick.

5. They must have left. / They must be at the restaurant.

4 Speaking

student's answer

1. Listen and compare the written text with the spoken account of the incident. Tick the features that you identify in each or both.

Has it happened to you or someone you know?

About a week ago I went to check my bank account for the umpteenth time, hoping that I'd find some cash. I placed my card in the machine, keyed in my password and to my great delight; there was the money in my account. So I pressed withdrawal, took my card out of the machine, as I was supposed to, and happily walked away...

I must have taken about ten steps or so, when I thought of checking to make sure that I'd put the money away securely. I searched my small bag and my pockets to no avail. I immediately turned and rushed back to the ATM. As I had feared, there was no cash in the slot.

I then checked my account to only get a confirmation that the amount I had requested had in fact been withdrawn. I was really upset and embarrassed. I called the bank and reported the incident. They promised to check the following day.

Fortunately, the machine had a security feature which pulled back cash that was not collected within fifteen or twenty seconds!

I was feeling really foolish to have done such a thing but then I was told that it happens all the time! Would you believe it?

2. Work in pairs. Think about an incident you heard or read about or something that happened to you or someone you know. Make notes.
3. It might help to write the actions/verbs in the order they happened and then add people, objects and places. Lastly, don't forget to also convey the manner in which things happened. Use your voice, exclamations, adjectives and adverbs.
4. Now use your notes and tell your partner or your class.

1 Listen and Discuss

1. Name some famous husbands and wives from history. Tell the most legendary story you know of a famous couple.
2. Read the texts about some famous marriages from history. Do you think their marriage made it easier for them to achieve certain goals?

Marie and Pierre Curie (1894–1906)

Maria Sklodowska was born in Warsaw in 1867. She was the daughter of a secondary-school teacher. She studied in local schools and received some training in science from her father. Because women were not able to attend university in Poland in the 19th century, Maria left Poland to study at a French university in 1891. Now known by the French name Marie, she worked hard in a laboratory that was owned by Pierre Curie.

Pierre Curie was born in Paris in 1859. He received his early education at home and then joined the Faculty of Sciences at the Sorbonne. He was promoted to Professor in 1900.

Marie and Pierre Curie got married in 1895. Although poor, they were devoted to each other and their research. Their studies of radioactive substances were carried out under difficult conditions. Their laboratory facilities were hardly adequate and they had to do a lot of teaching to earn a living.

In 1898, the couple discovered the elements Polonium and Radium. They eventually won the Nobel Prize for Physics in 1903 for the discovery of radioactivity. When Pierre died in 1906, Marie honored his memory by continuing their work. In 1911, Marie Curie won another Nobel Prize, this time for chemistry. She was the first person to win the Nobel Prize twice.

Anita and Giuseppe Garibaldi (1839–1849)

Giuseppe Garibaldi was a leader in the struggle for Italian unification and independence. When Garibaldi was exiled from Italy, he fled to South America, where he lived for 12 years and fought in another struggle for independence—this time for the independence of Uruguay from Argentina.

While in Brazil, Garibaldi married Anita Ribeiro, a young woman from Laguna, a small town in Southern Brazil. As husband and wife, the two traveled everywhere together. It was known that Anita even accompanied her husband to battles.

However, on August 4, 1849, Anita, pregnant and sick, died in Garibaldi's arms.

Garibaldi never did get over his grief at Anita's death. Over a decade later, he was still grieving, when he first went to meet the king of a unified Italy, wearing one of her scarves.

Quick Check ✓

A. Vocabulary. Match each word to its meaning.

- | | |
|-------------------------|---|
| 1. c devoted | a. bringing together |
| 2. e exiled | b. ran away |
| 3. b fled | c. dedicated |
| 4. f grieving | d. famous |
| 5. d legendary | e. forced to leave one's native country |
| 6. a unification | f. mourning |

B. Comprehension. Answer the questions about the marriages from history.

- Why did Marie Curie leave Poland after school?
- Why were conditions difficult for Marie and Pierre Curie?
- Which discovery made them famous?
- How many Nobel prizes did they win? When?
- Where did Giuseppe Garibaldi go after he fled Italy? What happened to him there?
- Was Garibaldi's campaign in Italy finally successful?

2 Pair Work

Discuss historically famous people with your partner. Choose a person who has changed the world for the better. Explain to your partner why you selected the person.

- Because women were not able to attend university in Poland.
- They had to work long hours in order to earn a living and their laboratory did not have a lot of facilities.
- The discovery of radioactivity made them famous.

- They received a Nobel Prize for Physics in 1903 and Marie Curie won another Nobel Prize in chemistry in 1911.
- He went to South America and fought for the independence of Uruguay. He met Anita there.
- Yes, it was. He also met the first king of a unified Italy.

3 Grammar

Other, Others, and Another

Other / Others

Other can be used as an adjective before a plural noun to mean "additional" or "further."

Many scientists feel that global warming can be reversed. Other scientists disagree.

Others can be used as a pronoun to mean additional or other persons or things.

Many scientists feel that global warming can be reversed. Others disagree.

Another

Another can be used as an adjective or a pronoun.

As an adjective, it means an alternative to something previously considered.

I know you want to go to Mexico on vacation, but I have another idea.

As a pronoun, it means an additional one of the same kind.

That was a good cup of coffee. I think I'll have another.

Whether used as an adjective or a pronoun, another is only used with singular nouns.

Incorrect: I think I'll have another beef burgers.

Note: Don't confuse other, others, and another with the pronouns each other and one another. Note that each other and one another, which are inseparable phrases, are used to express a mutual relationship.

My friends have deep trust in each other. I know that none of them could let down the others.

Emphatic Do

Do is usually used as an auxiliary in negative and question forms of the simple present and past tense.

However, the auxiliary do can also be used before the infinitive in affirmative sentences to add special emphasis.

I do enjoy his company.

He does like to talk.

We can also use emphatic do to show a contrast between expectations and reality.

A: You didn't call me yesterday. B: I did call you yesterday.

We usually get along very well, but we do have arguments occasionally.

Note: Emphatic do is strongly emphasized in speech.

A. Complete each sentence with other, others, or another.

1. He says he is so full of beef burgers. He says he could not eat another
2. You can use that topic for your paper. I have a few others in mind for my paper.
3. They like their cats so much that they are talking about getting another kitten.
4. You can keep that pen. I have two or three other pens in my backpack.
5. There are six other people in line ahead of us.
6. Cover your mouth when you cough so that others won't catch your cold.
7. I just recovered from a cold, and already I'm getting another one.

B. Read each sentence. Then use your own ideas to write a second sentence, using other, others, or another.

Some people are happy about the new shopping mall.

Others are upset about it.

- Many young people like to socialize on the Internet.
- One thing you can do to help the environment is recycle.
- Two of my three sisters have brown hair.
- English isn't the only class I have on Mondays.
- Attractive* is one synonym for pretty.
- My backpack is ripping.
- We're not the first people in line.
- One thing you should do for your health is exercise.

- Others do not.
- Another thing you can do is conserve water.
- The other has blond hair.
- My other class is biology.
- Another synonym is good-looking.
- I need another one.
- There are three others in front of us.
- Another thing you should do is eat healthy foods.

C. Rewrite each sentence, adding do, does, or did for emphasis.

I feel tired. I do feel tired.

- I hope you get better quickly.
- That child plays quietly.
- He needs to find a job soon.
- I asked my friend to join us.
- This store has the best selection.
- The teacher noticed you were absent.

- I do hope you get better quickly.
- He does enjoy playing on his own.
- He does need to find a job soon.
- I did ask my friend to join us.
- This store does have the best selection.
- The teacher did notice you were absent.

D. Match the sentence beginnings and endings. Rewrite the sentences, adding do, does, or did for emphasis.

We don't usually watch TV, but we do watch that program.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. We don't usually watch TV, c | a. but her sister wants to go shopping. |
| 2. I'm afraid of heights, e | b. but I sent my friend an email. |
| 3. I forgot to call my friend, b | c. but we watch that program. |
| 4. I didn't have a lot of time, f | d. she has a great sense of humor. |
| 5. She doesn't want to go shopping, a | e. though I fly occasionally. |
| 6. Although she's a bit quiet, d | f. but I managed to finish my homework. |

- I'm afraid of heights, though I do fly occasionally.
- I forgot to call my friend, but I did send my friend an email.
- I didn't have a lot of time, but I did manage to finish my homework.

- She doesn't want to go shopping, but her sister does want to go shopping.
- Although she's a bit quiet, she does have a great sense of humor.

4 Conversation

- Badr: I'm really excited that we're going to share an apartment to save money while we study in New York.
- Adnan: I am, too. But, you know, a lot of friends end up arguing about chores. So, I was thinking it might be a good idea for us to divide up the chores before we move in.
- Badr: Yeah. I do think we should discuss that. I'm sure we can work out a fair division of chores.
- Adnan: Of course, we'll each clean our own room. And since there are two bathrooms, how about if I clean one and you clean the other?
- Badr: That's fair. And each week we can take turns cleaning the rest of the apartment.
- Adnan: Hey, do you want to do our laundry together so that only one of us has to go to the laundromat each week?
- Badr: We're on the same wavelength. I was just going to suggest that.
- Adnan: I really don't like folding the wash. If I wash the laundry, would you be willing to do the folding?
- Badr: No sweat. And how about cooking? I don't mind cleaning, but cooking is really not my cup of tea. Would you do the cooking if I did the cleaning up?
- Adnan: Sorry, but if there's one chore I hate, it's cooking.
- Badr: Well, it looks like we're going to be eating a lot of takeout!

About the Conversation

1. They don't want to argue about chores.
2. They will both clean their own rooms. They will each clean a bathroom. They will take turns cleaning the rest of the apartment. Adnan will wash the laundry and Badr will fold it.
3. Neither of them wants to cook. Badr suggests they order takeout food often.

About the Conversation

1. What problem are Badr and Adnan trying to avoid?
2. How do Badr and Adnan divide up the chores?
3. What chore does neither of them want to do? What solution does Badr offer?

Your Turn

Role-play with a partner. Pretend that you are dividing up responsibilities for something you are doing together, such as working on a school project. Figure out a list of tasks, and then discuss who will be responsible for each task. Use the phrases for negotiating.

Real Talk

on the same wavelength = thinking the same thing
No sweat. = No problem.
not my cup of tea = a polite way to say you don't like something

Negotiating

How about if I...and you...?
 I think it would be fair if...
 I'm sure we can work this out.
 OK, I'll agree to...if you will...
 Would you (be willing to)...if I...?

5 Listening

Listen to a summary about Dr. Abdullah Al-Rabeeah, a famous pediatric surgeon. Then number his achievements in the correct order / in chronological order.

- ___ He and his team perform surgery on Polish twins.
- ___ He becomes Executive Director of Health Affairs at the National Guard.
- ___ He realizes he wants to become a doctor.
- ___ He graduates from King Saud University.
- ___ He is assistant professor at King Saud University.
- ___ He gets his Master's in Pediatric Surgery.
- ___ He is honored by the Polish community.
- ___ He is appointed Minister of Health.
- ___ He is a member of the Canadian Board of Pediatric Surgeons.
- ___ He is appointed as a consultant in the Royal Court.

6 Pronunciation

While most languages have the /r/ sound, it is pronounced differently in different languages. Listen and practice the English /r/ sound in these sentences.

1. Dr. Rabeeah is respected for his contribution to pediatric surgery.
2. They have enriched the lives of children around the world.
3. He received a Bachelor's of Surgery from King Saud University in Riyadh.
4. After the operation, the mother was relieved.
5. The Ambassador held a reception to honor Dr. Rabeeah.

7 Vocabulary Building

A. You will see these words in the reading on pages 12 and 13. Match the words with their meanings.

- | | |
|--------------------------|--|
| 1. e compensate | a. ways in which something lacks what it needs |
| 2. a deficiencies | b. causing great fear |
| 3. b fearsome | c. animals that live by hunting others |
| 4. d invaluable | d. extremely valuable; priceless |
| 5. c predators | e. to overcome a weakness with a strength |

B. Check your answers with a partner. If you do not understand the meaning of a word, look it up in a dictionary.

8 Reading

Before Reading

Do you think animals ever form partnerships to help one another? Explain.

ANIMAL PARTNERS

For animals in the wild, each day is a struggle to survive. They must continually search for food, while at the same time keeping themselves safe from predators. Some animals have learned that teaming up with another animal makes the struggle to find food, shelter, and safety a bit easier. This kind of special relationship in which animals depend upon and benefit from one another is called symbiosis.

One of the most visually surprising examples of symbiosis occurs between the fearsome African crocodile and the small plover bird. When a plover is nearby, a crocodile will open its long, sharp-toothed jaws to invite it inside. You might assume that the plover would quickly reject this invitation and fly off. Yet surprisingly, the plover does hop inside. Perhaps even more amazingly, the crocodile, normally known for its aggression, does not snap its mouth shut and have the plover for a snack. Instead, it remains still, not closing its mouth until the plover leaves. How can this strange behavior be explained? The answer is symbiosis. The plover picks out all the small pieces of meat stuck between the crocodile's teeth. In doing so, it cleans the crocodile's teeth, which prevents it from getting infections. Because the crocodile can not clean its own teeth, it depends on the plover to perform this service. In return, the crocodile provides an easy meal for the plover.

In some cases of symbiosis, like the crocodile and the plover, each animal in the pair benefits from their relationship in a different way. However, in other cases, the animals share a common goal. This is true of the honeyguide bird and the ratel, a furry creature with short legs and long claws. Both these animals live on grasslands in Africa and have an appetite for honey. As its name suggests, the honeyguide has a special ability for locating beehives. However, this small bird cannot open a beehive to get at the honey. To accomplish this, it teams up with the ratel. Ratsels are a perfect match for the honeyguide as they love honey, are large enough to crack open a hive, but have no ability to find hives themselves. The honeyguide flies over grasslands looking for a hive. When it does spot a hive, it swoops down and makes a noise to alert the ratel. The ratel uses its claws to tear open the hive. After eating its fill, the ratel invites the honeyguide to finish the leftovers.

Another two animals that team up to compensate for their own weaknesses are the zebra and the ostrich. These two animals often travel together. This is no surprise since they are a perfect match. While the giant, flightless ostrich has poor senses of both smell and hearing, the zebra has acute senses of smell and hearing. On the other hand, the zebra has terrible eyesight, while the ostrich has excellent eyesight, enhanced by its long neck which enables the ostrich to see far into the distance. In this way, each makes up for the other's deficiencies. As a result, the animals are far safer together than they would be apart. Ostriches can see predators, such as lions, far in the distance, while zebras can smell or hear others as they approach.

Birds and land animals aren't the only ones that work in symbiotic pairs. Some sea animals, like the clownfish and the sea anemone, do as well. Sea anemones, which look like plants, are actually dangerous animals with poisonous tentacles. Most fish stay away from anemones to avoid being stung. However, the clownfish makes its home among the sea anemones. It does not get stung because its body is protected by a special coating. Living among the deadly tentacles of an anemone has a clear advantage—most predators stay away! Another benefit for the clownfish is that it is able to eat the anemone’s leftover bits of food. But what is the advantage to the anemone? There are several. First, the brightly colored clownfish attracts predators. When the clownfish swims under the anemone’s tentacles to safety, if the predator follows, the anemone has the chance to sting and eat it. Other services the clownfish performs are cleaning up food scraps and dead anemone tentacles, and chasing away fish that might eat the anemone.

While many symbiotic pairs may at first look like odd partners, the benefits they provide one another are invaluable, and may make the difference between life and death. In fact, it is often these animals’ very differences that make them perfect partners.

After Reading

Answer the questions.

1. Explain the meaning of symbiosis.
2. In what way do the African crocodile and the plover have a symbiotic relationship?
3. Give an example of a case of symbiosis in which each animal has the same goal.
4. Name two animals that make up for each other’s deficiencies. How do they do this?
5. What benefits do the clownfish and anemone offer each other?

After Reading 1. Symbiosis is a relationship in which two animals depend upon and benefit from one another. Haqebat Al-Enjaz (Organized by \ Bandar Al-Hazmy) 2. The plover cleans the crocodile’s teeth, which prevents infection and provides a meal for the plover. 3. The honeyguide bird and the ratel help each other get honey. The honeyguide bird finds the hive, and the ratel tears it open.

4. The zebra has bad eyesight, but good senses of smell and hearing. The ostrich has poor senses of smell and hearing, but good eyesight. 5. The anemone provides a safe home for the clownfish and leftover food. The clownfish attracts prey to the anemone, cleans up food scraps and dead tentacles, and chases away fish that eat the anemone.

9 Speaking

1. Work in pairs/groups. Think about your relationship with a good friend. What can you offer each other?
2. Complete the chart with your notes and use them to discuss in class.

What can you offer your friend?	How does it help your friend?	What can your friend offer you?	How does it help you?

• The writer's maternal grandparents. • Grandfather: dedicated lawyer - moral fiber, highly respected, the most honest law specialist, genuinely interested in people, history, law and philosophy, calmest, most serene person, never raised his voice, never lost his temper, special ability to rationalize things smoothly (worst calamity reduced to a light twitch), sense of aura and peace.

Grandmother: get all worked up and flustered over minor irregularities, everything planned just so, worried about things that could go wrong, wanted everything perfect/to an extreme, cleanliness frenzy. They don't seem to share much aside from the fact that they complement each other. a. if they were both like the grandfather, they would probably forget to take care of practicalities and day to day issues. b. if they were like the grandmother, they would probably end up annoying each other and causing a lot of stress.

- A. 1. Do you think it is necessary for people to share the same characteristics in order to get along well with each other? Why? Why not?
 2. Read the text and find out.
- Who are the people involved?
 - What kind of people are they? Underline words that provide information about each one.
 - In your view, what are the characteristics that they share?
 - What do you think might have happened if they both shared exactly the same characteristics and attitude to life?
 - a. if they were both like the grandfather
 - b. if they were both like the grandmother
 - Why did the writer choose to describe the particular incident? What do you think it portrays?

• The writer chose to portray this incident because it provides a perfect example of symbiosis and a sense of priorities that is led by feelings and primary concern for the other person rather than material possessions.

3. • Paragraph 1: Introduce theme/topic/focus: grandparents (There is)
 • Paragraph 2: grandfather (My grandfather)
 • Paragraph 3: grandmother / tendencies and impulsive actions (Grandmother)
 • Paragraph 4: grandfather's reaction (When grandfather)
 • Paragraph 5: Conclusion/ writer's point of view (This incident)

There is a memory that always makes me smile with contentment and admiration, and that is the memory of my maternal grandparents.

My grandfather was a dedicated lawyer whose moral fiber prevented him from taking advantage of circumstances to make a profit! He was highly respected in Turkish courts and had the reputation of being the most honest law specialist. He was genuinely interested in people, history, law, and philosophy and was always reading when he was at home. He was the calmest, most serene person I have ever met. He never raised his voice, never lost his temper, and had a special ability to always rationalize things ever so smoothly that the worst calamity seemed like a slight twitch. Nothing could make him lose his sense and aura of peace.

Grandmother, on the other hand, was the exact opposite. She used to get all worked up about things and flustered over minor irregularities. She had to have everything planned just so and still worried about things that could go wrong. She wanted everything to be perfect, sometimes to an extreme. Once, when she had gotten into her cleanliness frenzy, she called someone in and got rid of genuine antique furniture that grandfather had painstakingly collected over a number of years and arranged in this perfect replica of a drawing room. There were fine, elegant chairs with brocade upholstery on the seats and beautiful tables, not to mention some exquisite mirrors. Grandmother had gotten it into her head that it was all useless because it collected too much dust and decided to sell it off to the first bidder for next to nothing.

When grandfather came home, he opened the door to the little drawing room to admire his creation and found an empty shell. He asked grandmother where everything was, and she very naturally informed him that she'd gotten rid of it because it was a dust magnet. All he did was chuckle, and then sat down at the table to have his lunch!

This incident pretty much rounds up the amazing symbiosis between these two wonderful people. In spite of their different characteristics, they obviously complemented each other in a way that only they could fully appreciate!

3. Read the text again and find out.
- What is the topic of each paragraph? (What or who is the paragraph about?)
 - Are all paragraphs about the same length? Why? Why not?
 - What words/phrases describe the qualities of each person? Can you think of more?
 - Which qualities are demonstrated through the incident?

3) • Not all paragraphs are the same length because each paragraph serves to focus on a particular topic /purpose that can be catered for through more or less in terms of length/ words/sentences. So the length will vary depending on amount of information, focus and intended effect. Sometimes a very brief statement can imply more than a whole page. • See answer to 2 above with highlighted words and phrases • Understanding, empathy, humor, lack of conflict, symbiotic attitude, caring.

- B. 1. Think about two people you know who are good friends. student's answer
2. Using a Venn diagram, write the qualities you feel each person has. In the overlapping portion of the diagram, write the qualities/characteristics that they share.
3. Write a short essay about the two friends, explaining how they complement each other.

Rosa and Miriam: A Perfect Friendship

My sister Rosa and her best friend Miriam have been friends since elementary school. They always seem to be together, and others joke that they are twins. However, their personalities are quite different...

Writing Corner

When you write a descriptive essay about people's qualities/characteristics:

- think about their positive and negative qualities, their needs and the things they offer, their attitude to life, typical incidents, etc.
- express your personal feelings/views about the people.
- do not simply write a list of adjectives.
- vary the way you express thoughts, memories, and feelings; use expressions like these: I think he/she is..., I have always felt that..., I regard him/her as..., He/She seems to..., He/She tends to..., Anytime I think of..., I have never..., He/She is the most (adjective) person I have ever known/met, etc.
- use linking devices that indicate similarity and contrast, cause and effect, consequence, reason, etc.; use a variety of expressions and words like these: due to this..., although..., in spite of..., while..., compared to..., because of..., as a result, both, etc.
- plan your essay carefully by deciding what/who you are going to focus on in different sections/paragraphs.
- write a first draft, then read it and make corrections or write questions about things you are not sure about.
- hand over the draft to someone else to read and edit; encourage him/her to write comments and questions.
- read the comments and edit your essay.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Simple Present Tense

Use the simple present tense for facts and things that are true in general.

For animals in the wild, each day is a struggle to survive.

Use the simple present tense to talk about future timetables or schedules.

My flight from Dubai to Bahrain leaves at 08:10 tomorrow. I then fly to Saudi Arabia and arrive in Riyadh at eleven o'clock.

Use the present simple with exclamations with Here...! and There...!:

- | | |
|---|---|
| Q: Can I have the check, please? | A: Of course, Sir. Here you are! |
| Q: Dad, can I borrow your cell phone, please? | A: I suppose so. Here you go! |
| Q: Where are my glasses? | A: Ah! There they are! |

Simple Present versus Present Progressive

Use the simple present tense to talk about habits and routine, and use the present progressive for actions occurring now or for a temporary situation.

Badr usually eats takeout, but today he is cooking dinner.

Use the present progressive for changing or developing situations.

More and more students are sharing apartments to save money while they study.

Use the present progressive with always, continually, constantly to describe an ongoing annoying situation or habit.

He is always asking his brother to lend him money.

Note: Some verbs are not often used in the progressive form: believe, think (opinion), know, remember, like, hate, want, prefer, see, hear, feel, seem, appear, have, belong, own.

A. Read the telephone conversation between Badr and his brother, Fahad. Complete the conversation with the correct form of the word in the parentheses. Use the simple present or present progressive.

Fahad: Hi Badr. How are (1. be) things in New York?

Badr: To tell you the truth, Fahad, not so good. It's my flatmate, Adnan. I was really excited about us sharing a flat but doesn't do (2. not/do) any chores. One bathroom is (3. be) spotless because I clean (4. clean) it but the other one is very dirty. The rest of the apartment is very untidy. He is always leaving (5. leave) his dirty dishes around the flat. I am constantly cleaning up (6. clean up). We agreed to take it in turns to do the laundry but he is always busy. I do (7. do) the laundry every week. Also, about the cooking ...

B. Complete the conversation with your own ideas. Compare with a partner.

Words Connected with Museums and Galleries

Some words we commonly associate with different types of museums and galleries are:

Archaeological	Technological	National
history	space	antiques

Expressing Enthusiasm with Intensifiers and Adjectives

We use the intensifiers really, very, absolutely and quite with adjectives to express our enthusiasm with something. There are two kinds of adjectives: gradable and non-gradable. Gradable adjectives can be measured in degrees, such as size, age, quality etc. Non-gradable adjectives cannot be measured like this.

We use certain intensifiers with each group of adjectives.

	Gradable Adjectives		Non-Gradable Adjectives
very	expensive	absolutely	priceless really	old	really	ancient extremely	beautiful	quite	stunning important		crucial
	good		amazing
	interesting		fascinating
	frightening		terrifying
	small		tiny
	big		massive

Note: The intensifier really can be used with both gradable and non-gradable adjectives.

1 Listen and Discuss

1. Talk about a person who went from not having much money to being wealthy.
2. What qualities do you think a person needs to excel in life and be successful?

AMANCIO ORTEGA

Industry: Retail Clothing Country of Citizenship: Spain

Amancio Ortega is the founder and chairman of a company that owns many stores, including the enormously popular international clothing store, Zara. Now Spain's richest man, Ortega is the son of a railroad worker, and had no formal higher education. When Ortega was 13, he worked as a delivery boy for a shirtmaker and later became the manager of a clothing store. He began making clothing in his living room and selling it to local stores. Ortega had an ability to predict what styles were going to be popular and to create these styles with inexpensive materials. In 1975, Ortega opened his first Zara store. Zara gained a reputation for selling designer fashions at reasonable prices. Today Ortega's company has more than 4,000 stores in 71 countries.

MOHAMMAD ABDUL LATIF JAMEEL

Industry: Business Country of Citizenship: Saudi Arabia

A great philanthropist and prominent businessman, Mohammad Abdul Latif Jameel, president of ALJ, runs one of the world's largest car dealerships, with operations in the Middle East, UK, Central Asia and China. A leading figure in corporate social responsibility, he has created a series of initiatives against poverty and has contributed greatly to the government's Saudization program in the Kingdom, by promoting thousands of jobs every year through the ALJ Community Services Programs. Abdul Latif Jameel is an MIT alumnus, member of the board of trustees and dedicated supporter of the Abdul Latif Jameel Poverty Action Lab (J-PAL). He has been named "Saudi Volunteer of the Year" for 2012, in recognition of the services offered by ALJCI in Saudi Arabia and the rest of the Arab world.

LI KA-SHING

Industry: Business Country of Citizenship: China

Li was born into an impoverished family in China in 1928. When he was 15, his father died, forcing Li to leave high school so that he could work to support his family. He took a job in a plastics company, where he would work 16 hours a day. At this company, Li used to assemble plastic flowers. By 1950, Li had started his own plastics manufacturing company. His company prospered, which led Li to expand his business into many different fields.

However, his successes are not all monetary. Li Ka-shing has a reputation for being honest and generous. In fact, he is one of Asia's most prominent philanthropists, and has announced plans to donate one-third of his wealth to charity.

3 Grammar

Used To versus Be Used To

Used to + the base form of a verb is used to talk about an activity that was repeated habitually in the past, but which is not done now.

He used to live in a mansion. But he lost all his money and now he lives in a small apartment.
 She didn't use to care about money. But now she's become very materialistic.

Note: For the negative, use didn't use to (omit the -d).

Be used to + gerund or noun is used to talk about something that has become familiar or habitual.

Some people think it's crazy that he works seven days a week. But he is used to it.
 Although she is a millionaire now, she isn't used to shopping in expensive stores.

Note: For the negative, use be + not + used to (do not omit the -d).

Would for Repeated Action in the Past versus Used To

Would can be used to talk about an action that happened regularly in the past. Used this way, would means the same thing as used to.

When I was a child, I would dream of being a millionaire. = When I was a child, I used to dream of being a millionaire.

Note: Only used to (not would) can be used to talk about a situation that was true (without habitual action) in the past.

He used to live at home until he got a job. (Correct)

He would live at home until he got a job. (Incorrect)

Was/Were Going To (Future in the Past)

Was/Were + going to + the base form of a verb is used to talk about a prediction for the future made in the past, or a past plan that was not carried out.

I knew that company was going to be a great success.

He was going to spend the money, but he decided to invest it in the stock market instead.

A. Complete the sentences with either use(d) to or be used to. Use the negative in some cases.

Before Reading

What do you know about Sheik Suleiman Al-Rajhi?
What do you think matters to him most?

Sheikh Sulaiman bin Abdul-Aziz Al-Rajhi

After Reading

1. He did not seem to have much hope of becoming a billionaire.
2. Banking, agricultural development, organic farming, real estate, investment, health and more.
3. Islamic banking in the UK because British officials were not aware of the principles and requirements of Islamic banking.
4. His work and contribution to education, health and charities worldwide through SAAR, the largest foundation of its kind in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.
5. It is common for people to set aside one third or one fourth of their wealth for endowment, effective after death..
6. Having been poor early in life, he was not afraid to donate and distribute his wealth so he could concentrate on managing the endowment project through SAAR.
7. He was awarded the prize in recognition of his outstanding service to Islam, his role in the establishment of the world's largest Islamic bank and his ongoing contribution to charities.

Sheikh Sulaiman bin Abdul-Aziz Al-Rajhi, the world-renowned philanthropist and winner of the 2012 King Faisal International Prize for Service to Islam, has not always been a billionaire.

Born in 1920, he spent his youth in Al-Qassim where he and his brother Saleh began their business, changing money for pilgrims, on their way to the cities of Makkah and Madinah.

Their business expanded in the 1970s during the oil boom in Saudi Arabia. The Al-Rajhi brothers helped migrant workers from Indonesia, Pakistan and other places to send their earnings home. They were granted permission to establish a bank, the Al Rajhi Bank, which complied with religious tenets such as a ban on interest.

Founding the bank, which is now the world's biggest Islamic lender, was not hurdle-free. Sulaiman Al-Rajhi began by opening an office in Britain, to introduce the Islamic banking system on a more international basis. However, his initial attempts to secure a banking license were unsuccessful, as British officials were not aware of the principles and requirements of Islamic banking. He had to travel to different countries in order to explain to bankers that interest was forbidden by Islam and regarded as unacceptable by pious people all over the world. He pointed out that interest caused a lot of people to avoid transactions with banks, and to keep their cash and valuables at home. Eventually, the banking system he proposed was launched in Saudi Arabia and subsequently implemented in the United Kingdom.

Sheikh Sulaiman bin Abdul-Aziz Al-Rajhi is also chairman of the National Agricultural Development Company and founder of the Al-Watania agricultural projects, which include the largest poultry farm in the Middle East and one of the most successful companies in Saudi Arabia. Al Rajhi had visited a poultry farm abroad and had been shocked by the improper way chickens were fed and slaughtered. This prompted him to launch the poultry farm project, making sure that chickens were naturally fed and halal slaughtered according to Islamic tenets. He has also introduced and supported organic farming throughout the Middle East, intent on securing healthy food for all as a means of fostering good health, preventing illness and consequently reducing the cost of medical treatment. The Al-Rajhi projects diversified into other areas, as well, such as real estate and other investment projects.

In 2009, Sulaiman Al-Rajhi established the Sulaiman Al-Rajhi University, a non-profit research university with three departments; Medicine, Nursing and Applied Science. In fact, the university was established by the Suleiman Al-Rajhi Charitable Foundation (SAAR), which is considered the largest foundation of its kind in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, in terms of capital as well as range and volume of activities. SAAR now owns and controls more than half of Sulaiman Al-Rajhi's wealth. The foundation organizes and oversees a substantial number of charities and humanitarian activities worldwide.

In May 2011, Sulaiman Al-Rajhi announced that he was donating most of his $7.7 billion fortune to charity. It is not uncommon for people in the Islamic world, to set aside one third or one fourth of their wealth for endowment, effective after death. In Sulaiman Al-Rajhi's case, however, this was implemented during his lifetime. He distributed the rest of his wealth to his children in order to avoid potential disputes over inheritance, that could destroy kinship and harmony among them.

Sulaiman Al-Rajhi was awarded the highly prestigious King Faisal International Prize for Service to Islam, in 2012, in recognition of his outstanding service to Islam, his role in the establishment of the world's largest Islamic bank and his ongoing contribution to charities, and humanitarian projects' fight against poverty.

Having experienced extreme poverty earlier in life, he chose to donate and distribute all his assets, becoming poor once again but gaining peace of mind and inner happiness. Despite his advanced age, he enjoys a fully active life as he travels to various regions of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, managing the endowment project under his flagship, the SAAR Foundation.

Writing Corner

When you write a descriptive essay about a person's life:

- distinguish the main life events from surrounding information.
- select key events that provide a complete picture of how someone's life developed from the time they were born.
- list the events in chronological order, then switch them around if you wish, e.g. Having completed his studies, he proceeded to apply for any position that was advertised in his area of specialty.
- use connectors to show the order of events such as: when; then; after; while.
- be as descriptive as possible: Describe the person's character, qualities and actions. Choose key events based on these qualities so that the reader has a clear picture of the person's character as well as the person's life story.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Present Perfect Simple Tense

Use the present perfect to talk about actions that started at an indefinite time in the past. It is often used to talk about time from the past to now in a person's life.

Q: Have you been to Kuwait?

A: Yes, I've been to Kuwait. I have visited many places in the Middle East.

Use the present perfect to talk about recently completed actions.

Mohammad Abdul Latif Jameel has contributed greatly to the government's Saudization program in the Kingdom.

Use the present perfect simple to emphasis an action that started in the past and has continued until now and may continue in the future.

Li Ka-Shing has lived in China for all his life.

Time Expressions with For and Since

Use the present perfect simple tense with for to indicate the duration of the action: for two months, for a year, for a long time.

3 Grammar

Future Perfect

The future perfect is used to express the idea that an action will be completed in the future, before another event or before another specific time in the future. The future perfect is formed with will have + past participle.

By the time my children are grown, scientists will have found a solution to global warming.

The car company will have introduced their new models by November.

Future Perfect Progressive

The future perfect progressive is used to focus on the duration of an action that will be happening in the future before another time or event happens in the future. The future perfect progressive is formed with will have + been + present participle.

By the year 2020, people will have been flying for 117 years.

Note: Sometimes either the future perfect or the future perfect progressive can be used to express the same idea.

By 2020, I will have been living in Sao Paulo for 15 years.

By 2020, I will have lived in Sao Paulo for 15 years.

The Future with Dependent Time Clauses

We can talk about a future event using a time clause with when, before, after, while, until, and since. A present tense verb form (not a future form) is used in the time clause, and will or be going to are used in the main clause.

My father will keep using his old-fashioned cord phone until it breaks.

When he finishes working on his invention, he's going to let me try it out.

A. Use the future perfect to combine the future events into one sentence, using by or by the time.

1st Event: I will take all my final exams. 2nd Event: The end of June will come.

By the end of June, I will have taken all my final exams.

1. 1st Event: It will start to rain.
2nd Event: We will arrive at the picnic.
2. 1st Event: I will fall asleep.
2nd Event: This DVD film will be over.
3. 1st Event: I will get married and have children.
2nd Event: 2020 will come.
4. 1st Event: My father will work at his company for 20 years.
2nd Event: He will retire.
5. 1st Event: He will decide which college to attend.
2nd Event: February will come.
6. 1st Event: The food will get cold.
2nd Event: You will come to the table.
7. 1st Event: He will learn to drive.
2nd Event: He will graduate.

- A
1. By the time we arrive at the picnic, it will have started to rain.
 2. I will have fallen asleep by the time this DVD film is over.
 3. By 2020, I will have gotten married and had children.
 4. By the time my father retires, he will have worked at his company for 20 years.
 5. He will have decided which college to attend by February.
 - Unit 3: What Will They Think of Next?
Hagebat Al-Enjaz (Organized by \ Bandar Al-Hazmy)
 6. By the time you come to the table, the food will have gotten cold.
 7. He will have learned to drive by the time he graduates.

B. Use the future perfect or the future perfect progressive to complete each sentence. In some cases, both forms are possible.

🔦 Sheri started studying biology in 2013.
By 2017, she will have been studying biology for four years.

1. My parents got married in 1990. By 2020, they will have been married for 30 years.
2. My brother became a vegetarian three weeks ago. By next week, he will have been a vegetarian for four weeks.
3. Jasim started his new job in February. By November, he will have been working there for 10 months.
4. You started studying at 4:00. By 8:00, you will have been studying for four hours.
5. I've already lost five kilograms on my diet. If I lose another two, I will have lost 7 kilograms.
6. I moved to Singapore in 1998. By 2020, I will have lived in Singapore for 22 years.

8 Reading

Before Reading

If you could go into space, would you? Why or why not?

AN OUT-OF-THIS-WORLD VACATION

Things that once seemed impossible often become commonplace with the passing of time. There are people predicting that this will happen with space tourism in the next decade or two. Some are even investing in and developing space tourism technology, believing that space tourism will be the next big thing. They imagine a future in which space travel will have become a reality for millions of ordinary people.

At the moment, space tourism is only a possibility for the incredibly wealthy. In 2001, American multi-millionaire Dennis Tito paid $20 million to become the first space tourist. After eight months of rigorous training, Tito traveled aboard a Russian capsule that was launched by an American company called 'Space Adventures.'

He then spent seven days aboard the International Space Station. Since then, a number of other millionaire space tourists of different nationalities have gone into space.

Although up to now only very wealthy people have had the opportunity to be space tourists, many see this as the beginning of what will eventually become a lucrative new industry. There are several companies that have already invested millions of dollars in developing new, reusable launch vehicles. Their goal is to lower launch costs enough to make it possible for the average person to buy a ticket to space. The Japanese Rocket Society, for example, has set a target price of one million yen (about $10,000).

Virgin Galactic, a British company owned by Richard Branson's Virgin Group, has been working on plans for sending people into space for years. The company is about to begin testing of their eight-seat spacecraft, and expects that they will have worked out any problems by 2020. When the spacecraft is shown to be safe, Virgin Galactic will begin their flights. Although tickets are a steep £100,000 ($160,000), amazingly, the first year of flights has already been booked. One of these future passengers is Lisa Ramirez, a mother of three. When asked why she was prepared to spend so much money on a Galactic flight, Ramirez explained, "I'm 58 years old, and by the time this happens, I will have been dreaming of going to space for at least 45 years!"

There are even companies working on plans to build hotels for space tourists. The Shimizu Corporation, a giant Japanese construction company, has detailed plans for a hotel they expect to complete by 2020. They believe that by then they will have created a 63-room hotel which will orbit 279 miles (450 kilometers) above the surface of Earth. The hotel will slowly spin in order to produce enough force to simulate Earth's gravity. It is estimated that such a space hotel would cost 6 to 12 billion dollars, and would take about six years to build.

Since water was discovered on the moon in 1998, the multi-national hotel chain, Hilton Hotels, has been working on plans for a hotel on the moon. The plans call for a 5,000-room complex with a beach, a working farm, a medical center, and even a school. Two huge solar panels will generate the power. Hilton is working on this project with experts at NASA.

You may wonder what space tourists will do while in space. To begin with, most will probably want to spend some time simply enjoying the incredible sight of Earth from space. After that, no doubt they will spend some time gazing at the amazingly bright stars, and will take a space walk or two. When space tourists have had their fill of observing, they are likely to spend hours amusing themselves floating and doing acrobatics in the zero gravity of space. This zero gravity could provide endless recreational opportunities, including swimming in a zero gravity swimming pool in which people move through a floating mass of water.

With so much research, energy, and money being poured into space tourism, it is clear that it is a matter of when, rather than if space tourism will become a reality.

After Reading

Answer true or false. Rewrite the false statements to make them true.

- false The first tourist in space paid two million dollars. He paid 20 million dollars.
- false Virgin Galactic is struggling to book its first year of flights. The first year of flights is already booked.
- true A Japanese construction company has plans to build a hotel in space.
- false The entire hotel will experience zero gravity. The hotel will spin in order to reproduce Earth's gravity.)
- false The Hilton Hotel chain plans to power a moon hotel with wind power. The moon hotel will be powered by solar power.
- true Hilton Hotels is working on the moon hotel with NASA.

9 Speaking

- Work in groups/pairs. Think about space tourism in the future. Do you think it will happen? Why? Why not?
- What do you think some of the advantages and disadvantages will be?
- Think about transportation, accommodation, cost, and advertising.
- Make notes in the chart and use them to help you present your opinion and discuss in class.

Words Connected with Space and the Planetary System: Part 1

Some words we associate with space and the planetary system are:

technology	gas	solar system	rocks	orbit
space station	gravity	the moon	volcanoes	launch spacecraft	stars	the sun	poisonous air	land
robot car	meteors	Earth	high mountains	take photos astronauts	eclipse	the planets	atmosphere	build

- Our planet Earth is a lump of rock in space.
- Each planet orbits the sun on its own invisible path.
- The sun was formed by thick clouds of dust and gas.
- The moon is the only place in space where people have landed.
- An eclipse is when the moon moves in front of the sun for a short time. The sky gets darker and the temperature drops.

- C. Complete these facts about space with an appropriate word. Use the vocabulary words above.
1. The sun is at the center of our solar system. Earth is one planet in a group of eight planets. Scientists now consider Pluto to be a dwarf planet.
 2. The sun is a star. Because it is very close to Earth, it looks bigger than the other stars.
 3. Sometimes a meteor crashes into the moon and makes a crater or giant hole in the surface.
 4. In the future, scientists want to build hotels on the moon so people can go there on vacation.

2 Reading

Before Reading student's answer

1. Do you think there is life on other planets?
2. If there were life on other planets, how could we find this out?

IS ANYBODY OUT THERE?

Are humans the only intelligent life in the universe? Or, are we just one of many advanced civilizations out there? While people used to assume we were alone in the universe, we now know that the galaxy contains over 100 billion stars. This fact has led many scientists to think it unlikely that we are the only intelligent life form in the universe. Some of these scientists have devoted themselves to searching for other civilizations. This search is commonly referred to as the Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence, or SETI.

Since the SETI program began in 1959, scientists have been scanning the sky for signals sent by another, alien civilization. To do this, they use the world's largest radio telescope which is located in Arecibo, Puerto Rico. The Arecibo telescope is 1,000 feet (305 meters) in diameter. This telescope is so large, it is said that it could hold 10 billion bowls of cornflakes! The telescope collects and sends data to SETI computers 24 hours a day.

Many people don't realize that in addition to searching for radio waves, we humans are sending them out into space as well. This is because all of the radio and television signals that come into our homes also travel into space. We have been constantly and unintentionally leaking radio waves into space for over sixty years now. One day these signals may be detected by an alien civilization. In fact, it is possible that aliens are already listening to Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?, CSI, and The Simpsons!

Arecibo Radio Telescope

Although SETI has found some unexplained signals, there have not been any clear, confirmed extraterrestrial signals yet. However, SETI scientists are not at all discouraged. They know that the universe is vast, and searching the entire sky for a distant signal is like searching for a needle in a haystack.

Not only are SETI scientists not discouraged, they are actually more optimistic than ever before. They do feel that in another 50 or 100 years, they will have succeeded in detecting alien signals. What is the reason for this confidence? Previous searches were limited by the shortcomings of available technology. For example, while there are hundreds of billions of stars in our galaxy, fewer than a thousand have been monitored for alien signals. But technology is improving all the time. As technology improves, scientists are going to have a better chance of picking up alien signals. In the next few decades, hundreds of thousands of stars, maybe even millions, will have been monitored.

However, as he gets older, he dreams of his father, who tells him to battle his evil uncle and reclaim his family throne.

4 NAME THE TV FILM

About the story: This is a documentary about Bruce Lee's life, career, and untimely death. It reveals a side of Lee unknown to the public, along with the better known qualities of the celebrity—the man that the world knew. Lee had been working on a new project at the time of his death, ironically titled Game of Death. Rare camera shots have been included in the documentary according to Lee's own script notes in an attempt to convey his ambitions for the project and his frame of mind toward the end of his life.

3 NAME THE TV FILM

About the story: This animated film is about Marlin, a clownfish that lives in the Great Barrier Reef. Marlin loses his son Nemo when a diver captures him and takes him to a dentist's office, where Nemo finds himself in a tank with other sea creatures. Marlin sets off with Dory, a blue tang fish with short-term memory loss, to rescue him. They travel a great distance, running into sharks, jellyfish, and whales and getting rides on sea turtles. While Marlin and Dory are trying to get to the dentist's office, Nemo and the other sea animals in the dentist's tank are plotting their escape in order to return to Sydney Harbor and their homes.

5 NAME THE TV FILM

About the story: Based on the real life story of prominent mathematician John Nash, this film portrays Nash's struggle with his delusions caused by a mental condition. Nash starts a seemingly promising academic career and makes a remarkable advancement in "game theory," when he begins having delusions and struggles to maintain control over his mental state. His wife, Alicia, stands by him through years of therapy, and he is eventually able to resume his research and goes on to win the prestigious Nobel Prize.

4 Conversation

Adel: That was such a fantastic basketball game on TV.

Fahd: You must be joking.

Adel: Why? Didn't you like it?

Fahd: I thought it was a terrible game. The whole thing was just awful.

Adel: What didn't you like about it?

Fahd: For one thing, the Bulls' key player missed every easy shot. It really bothered me throughout the entire game.

Adel: Well, you're right about that. But what else didn't you like?

Fahd: I thought their uniforms were ridiculous. I found the whole idea of the Bulls' players wearing cowhide tops hard to swallow.

Adel: I don't agree at all. The whole idea is to stand out in the game. The tops are not real cowhide. It's fake cowhide.

Fahd: I'm not sure they were fake. Think of all the poor animals they took the hides from. They must believe that the poor animals are a dime a dozen. Anyway, by the end of the game, I started to doze off.

Adel: We seem to have very different tastes in basketball and uniforms. Maybe next time we get together we should just go out to a restaurant.

Fahd: I couldn't agree more.

About the Conversation

1. What did Adel like about the game?
2. What did Fahd dislike about the players?

Real Talk

just = really, very hard to swallow = not easy to believe a dime a dozen = something so common that it doesn't have much value

doze off = fall asleep

Your Turn

Role-play with a partner. Think of a situation in which two people might disagree. Discuss your opinions, using the phrases for agreeing and disagreeing.

Agreeing

I agree completely.

I couldn't agree more.

You're absolutely right.

You're right about that.

Disagreeing

(I'm sorry but) I don't agree (with you).

I see it differently.

I totally disagree.

(I'm afraid) I don't really agree.

I'm not so sure about that.

You must be joking. (Informal and not very polite)

About the Conversation

8 Reading

Before Reading

Brainstorm a list of elements in a detective story.

The Formula behind Detective Stories on TV

Detective stories have always been a favorite in literature, and now they are one of the most popular genres in TV films and series. There is something appealing about the mystery and intrigue that captivates viewers and keeps them in suspense until the case is finally solved.

But what accounts for the phenomenal success and enduring popularity of detective stories? Is it the charismatic and fearless hero and his uncanny ability to uncover the truth? Is it the action and adventure—the high-speed chases, danger, and exotic settings? Is it the psychological wit and hi-tech gadgets that the detective has at his disposal? Or is it the simple fact that the viewer knows the hero will triumph over the villain in the end?

Clearly, the TV audience enjoys the mystery and non-stop suspense of detective films. However, ironically, there is also predictability to the story that is tremendously appealing. Certain elements and sequences of events appear over and over in detective stories and are eagerly awaited by fans. TV films and series with such predictable elements are known as formula films. The TV audience knows the plot will be puzzling and sometimes have unexpected results. They know the hero will confront dangerous villains. They know there will be complicated steps involved in piecing together all the clues, and they are challenged to try to figure out the mystery before the detective.

The most basic element in the formula of a detective story is the hero—the detective. This is the character the viewer identifies with throughout the film. He is usually a courageous individual with superior intelligence. He is often charming and outgoing, which helps him socialize with others, while, in fact, he is collecting information from witnesses and gathering evidence for his case. Another type of hero is the gruff and serious detective, who rarely smiles, but is very efficient at his job. In contrast, the hero in detective comedies is a naïve and clumsy character who accidentally stumbles across clues to eventually solve the crime.

Of course, the villain also plays a crucial role in the story. On occasion, the villain's identity is a mystery and is only revealed at the end, but more often he is introduced to the TV audience. Just as there are formulaic types of heroes, there are stereotypical villains: cold-blooded, greedy criminals, evil geniuses, and mad scientists. Most villains also have physical or psychological defects that add to the ugliness of their character, such as a scarred face, a missing limb, or a split personality.

The detective is challenged to find the villain by following clues. To assist him, he uses special talents in intellectual reasoning or has help from technological devices. These range from a simple magnifying glass to sophisticated DNA analysis and electronic tracking devices. Some detectives even use high-tech gadgets that are disguised as everyday objects, such as an explosive pen, a laser watch, or a computerized, talking vehicle!

When the hero confronts the villain, there are always scenes of action and danger. These involve high-speed chases on any kind of vehicle imaginable—cars, motorcycles, helicopters, speed boats, skis, submarines, camels, or simply on foot.

If the detective is captured, he finds himself in life-threatening situations and must use his skills to escape. He is then even more determined to catch the villain.

One way or another, the detective always accomplishes his mission, much to the satisfaction of the audience. The formula for detective stories is so successful; it is hard to imagine that it will ever be significantly altered. After all, who wants to watch a detective story without action and adventure, or in which the villain wins?

After Reading

Answer true or false. Rewrite the false statements to make them true.

- false Detective stories are only popular on TV. (They are popular both on TV and in literature)
- true The success of detective stories is due to a combination of elements.
- true Many elements of a detective story are predictable.
- false All detective stories have an intelligent and charming hero. (There are different types of heroes)
- false The formula of detective stories is likely to change in the future. (It's hard to imagine that it will be altered)

9 Speaking

- Work in pairs/groups. Compare two TV films or documentaries that you have seen. Think about the characters, setting, plot, story development, special effects, and other features in the TV films; consider the theme, setting, time period, history, special effects, and outcome in the documentaries.
- Make notes in the appropriate chart. Use your notes to talk about the similarities and differences of the TV films/documentaries that you have compared in class.

Title	TV Film 1: _____	TV Film 2: _____ characters/actors setting plot story development
special effects
other features

Title	TV Documentary 1: _____	TV Documentary 2: _____
theme

10 Writing

- A. 1. What kind of TV films do you enjoy? Why? student's answer
2. Are there categories of TV films that you are not interested in or you dislike? Which? Why? student's answer
3. Can you explain what is meant by "film genres"? student's answer
4. Read the text and find out.
- What are genres? How are they defined?
 - How easy is it to classify TV films?
 - Are there distinct and permanent categories? Why? Why not?
5. What are the distinguishing characteristics of different genres? Underline/highlight words/phrases or sentences that provide the answer. Answer on page 67 action adventure comedy drama animation epics biopics detective horror war Western science fiction

- 4.
- Categories of films based on theme, setting, plots/ stories, characters, and other specific features such as special effects, computer enhancement, animation, etc.

There are major genres and subgenres.

- It is not always easy to classify films as they often combine elements of different genres.

• No there aren't because film genres evolve according to appeal.

For example action films with superhuman heroes used to be popular over a decade ago. They're not so popular any longer.

Main Genres of TV Films

Film genres are categories of films based on theme, setting, plots/stories, characters, and other specific features such as special effects, computer enhancement, animation, etc. There are major genres and subgenres. For example, adventure and action films are quite well-known and associated with popular heroes such as Superman or the Rambo sequels.

It is not always easy to classify films as they often combine elements of different genres. Kung Fu Panda, for instance, is an animated film which can also be categorized as an action film. This is the reason why some films are listed in different categories or a category that is more popular at a given time.

Film genres evolve through time. Action films featuring martial arts specialists and superhuman heroes used to be very popular over a decade ago. They still exist, but they seem to have lost their initial appeal. If a film includes action and is filmed in tropical settings, is it an action film or an adventure film? Would you say that Toy Story belongs to animation as a genre or comedy? Is it more of one or the other? And if so, which?

Detective films are developed around stories of criminal actions and include elements of mystery and suspense. Dramas, on the other hand, are serious films, portraying realistic life situations, character development, and interaction. They include a number of subcategories, e.g. melodramas, biographies, or "biopics." Epics are usually costume dramas, historical dramas, or war dramas in extravagant settings with lavish costumes. They are sometimes a more spectacular version of a biopic film, such as The Last Emperor.

Horror films are designed and produced to frighten audiences. They are sometimes combined with science fiction when, for example, Earth is invaded by an alien monster. Science fiction films, on the other hand, are often visionary with futuristic technology and extraordinary creatures from outer space. One of the most famous examples of this genre is E.T.

War films portray the horror and destruction of war and are often combined with documentary excerpts. They are also paired with other genres depending on the story, e.g. action, adventure, drama, comedy, etc. Finally, Westerns represent one of the oldest genres with easily recognizable plots, elements, and characters, including horses, dusty towns, Indians and cowboys, good and bad guys, a sheriff and deputies, etc. In other words, they follow a common formula which has been modified, developed, expanded, supplemented, and revisited over the years.

If you look up film genres in different sources, you will find that they share some categories but not others. Once again, this is quite natural, given the evolutionary nature of film genres and changing trends in popularity that reflect overall social and financial trends.

student's answer

- B. 1. Think of a TV film genre that uses a formula (e.g. action, adventure, comedy, Western). Choose a particular TV film in this genre as an example.
2. Think about the different parts of the formula. Use a diagram to make notes.
3. Write an expository essay in which you reveal and explain the formula behind the film.

A Coming-of-Age Film

*The Lion King is a coming-of-age film. Coming-of-age films focus on a young person's journey to adulthood, often both emotionally and physically. In these kinds of films there is usually a role model who helps teach the main character, and there is usually a test that the character must undergo. The Lion King is a good example of this kind of film because...*

Writing Corner

When you write an expository essay:

- choose a specific area of a topic to focus on.
- think about your audience or readers.
- research and collect information from different sources.
- think of examples and comments made by others.
- you can use quotes, exchanges, and arguments from your sources.
- if necessary, you can present the information in three main sections:
 - a. an introduction and thesis statement
 - b. a longer paragraph or a number of paragraphs presenting the information about different aspects or categories of the main topic
 - c. a closing paragraph
- you are free to use different types of text, arguments, and material, including visuals.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Comparative and Superlative Forms of Adjectives

The Comparative

Use more/less + adjective, or adjective + -er to make the comparative.

Detective stories are more/ less popular than stories about space travel.

Goldfish are smaller than clownfish.

Use words such as: a little, slightly, much, a lot, considerably, definitely, and certainly to express how much something differs, or to add emphasis.

Children's TV films are considerably better than they used to be.

Use as + adjective + as to compare things that are equal or similar.

Finding Nemo is as good as Toy Story.

Use not as + adjective + as to compare things that are different.

Finding Nemo and Toy Story are good TV films but not as good as The Lion King.

Use the + comparative, the + comparative to describe two actions. The second action happens as a result of the first.

The more I hear about the Giza Pyramids, the more I want to know.

The harder he works at speaking English, the better he becomes.

The Superlative

Use the + adjective + -est or the most/least + adjective to make the superlative.

The Nobel prize is the most prestigious award a scientist can win.

The company director agreed that it was the least attractive offer, but he was obliged to take it.

We can use the expression by far to add emphasis.

The Lion King is by far the best TV film of all.

A. Write sentences about the animals using comparative and superlative structures. student's answer camel • cat • cheetah • donkey • eagle • elephant • goldfish • horse • ostrich • snake • tiger • lion

- Both cheetahs and tigers are big cats.
Lions are the biggest of the cats.
The biggest tigers are as big as lions.
Cheetahs are a lot smaller and more slender in comparison.
The cheetah is by far the fastest land animal on Earth.

- cheetah/tiger/lion
- camel/donkey/horse/elephant
- ostrich/eagle
- bear/ snake
- Your own idea

B

- Chinese Mandarin (number of speakers is 1 billion +)
- Mount Everest (8,850m)
- Sahara, North Africa (3,320,000 sq. miles)
- Pacific Ocean (10,924 m)
- Shanghai, China (13.3 million)
- Caspian Sea, Asia-Europe (371,00 sq m)
- Dalol, Ethiopia (annual average temperature is 93.2F, 34C)
- Aswan, Egypt (0.02 inches of rainfall a year)

B. Imagine you are a contestant on a TV Quiz show. Work with a partner. Ask and answer the questions.

- What's the most widely spoken language?
- What's the tallest mountain?
- What's the largest desert?
- What's the deepest ocean?
- What's the most populated city?
- What's the largest lake (by size)?
- What's the hottest place?
- What's the driest place?

Words Connected with Space and the Planetary System: Part 2

Look at this information about the planets in our solar system:

Name of Planet	Distance from the Sun (km)	Size (km)	Number of moons	Geographical Features or Special Facts
Mercury	57,909,227	2,439.7	None	rocky
Venus	108,209,475	6,051.8	None	rocky, high mountains, volcanoes, poisonous air
Earth	149,598,262	6,371	1	rocky, inhabited, mountains, volcanoes
Mars	227,943,824	3,389.5	2	rocky, mountains, volcanoes
Jupiter	778,340,821	69,911	68	cold, rings
Saturn	1,426,666,422	58,232	62	cold, rings
Uranus	2,870,658,186	25,362	27	cold, icy rings
Neptune	4,498,396,441	25,362	14	cold, icy rings

Note: Our Solar System used to be described as a group of nine planets, but scientists now consider Pluto to be a dwarf planet.

Irregular Comparative and Superlative Adjectives

In most cases we make comparative and superlative adjectives by adding -er/ -est, or we use more/most or less/least. However, a small number of adjectives are irregular.

well (healthy) – better – the best far (distance) — farther or further – the farthest or the furthest old (people in a family) – older or elder – the oldest or the eldest bad – worse – the worst good – better – the best

- C. Use the chart above to find information about the planets. Choose the correct word to make true facts about our solar system.

Some planets are much bigger and farther away from the sun than others. Jupiter is by far the (1. biggest / hottest) and Mercury is the (2. smallest / coldest) in our solar system. Mars is (3. closer / farther) from the sun than Earth. Mercury is the (4. closest/ farthest) planet to the sun. It is so (5. close / far) to the sun that if you stood on the surface of the planet, the sun would appear at least three times (6. larger / smaller) than it does on Earth.

Mercury, Venus, Earth and Mars are all rocky planets, but Earth is the only one that is (7. inhabitable / uninhabitable), which means that people, animals and plants live on it. Venus is only (8. slightly / almost) smaller than Earth and has many high mountains and volcanoes. Venus is so (9. close / far) to the sun that the land is (10. hotter / colder) than boiling water. Mars is a (11. rocky / icy) planet and is known as the Red Planet because of the red color of the planet's surface. Mars is (12. almost/ considerably) half the size of Earth.

The four planets (13. farthest / closest) away from the sun are Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. They are very (14. hot / cold) and (15. green / icy) places. Jupiter has the (16. least / most) number of known moons. Jupiter's four (17. largest/ smallest) moons were observed in 1610 by an Italian astronomer called Galileo Galilei. Saturn has the (18. least / most) spectacular ring system of all the planets. There are 7 rings made up of dust, rocks and ice. (19. Most / More) than 40 spacecraft have explored Saturn, but only one has visited Uranus and Neptune. Neptune is the (20. farthest / closest) from the sun and makes a complete orbit around the sun in about 165 Earth years.

12 Project student's answer

1. When certain kinds of films such as documentaries are being planned/ designed, a storyboard is created. A storyboard includes representative scenes with notes/comments. See the example below.
2. Think about the most important events and times of a Muslim person's life that you can present in a documentary and make notes in the chart.

AGE	Important events and times

11 - 15
16 - 20
Over 20

3. Use the storyboard framework below. Write the script/commentary of the documentary under Comments and what will be happening in the scene under Action.
4. Use a large sheet of paper or cardboard to create a realistic storyboard. Draw and/or use photos or parts of photos and drawings for the scenes. Transfer your script and action notes onto the storyboard. You can write your notes by hand or word process them. Use a font that is easy to read. Present your storyboard in class.

Don't buy that dress unless you really need it.
(independent clause) (adverb clause)

Note: When an adverb clause begins the sentence, use a comma to separate it from the independent clause. When the adverb clause is at the end, do not use a comma.

Because, because of, since, and now that begin adverb clauses that give information about reasons.

They closed the store early since there were no customers.

Because of must be followed by a noun (or noun phrase).

They went to the mall because of the sale.

(In order) to and so (that) begin adverb clauses that give information about purpose.

(In order) to must be followed with the base form of the verb.

Advertisements use many techniques in order to convince people to buy products.

Clauses with so (that) usually include a modal.

I left my wallet at home so that I wouldn't be tempted to buy anything.

If, even if, in case, only if, and unless begin adverb clauses that give information about conditions.

I'll write down my phone number in case you need it.

Use if to show that the condition affects the result. Use even if to show that it does not. Use the present tense with an if-clause, even if it refers to a future time.

We won't go to the picnic if it rains.
We're going to the picnic, even if it rains.

Where, wherever, and everywhere begin adverb clauses that give information about place.

He buys something wherever he goes.
The advertisements were placed everywhere you could imagine.

8 Reading

Before Reading

Make a list of all the places you see ads in your everyday life. How many ads do you think you are exposed to in an average day?

ADS EVERYWHERE: Do You "Buy" It?

For most people, it is virtually impossible to go through the day without seeing advertisements. From the time we wake up and flip on the TV or check our email, we are surrounded by advertisements. They are in magazines, on buses, on billboards, online, and on buildings, to name just a few of the places we see them throughout the day. According to a recent study, the average person is exposed to between 400 and 600 advertisements each day. This means that by the time we are 60, we will have been exposed to 40 to 50 million advertisements!

In the past, advertisements were usually designed to reach people in their homes through traditional approaches, like TV commercials and newspaper and magazine ads. However, people's viewing habits have changed dramatically in the last couple of decades. These days, people are less likely to give one form of media their full attention. For example, even if someone is watching TV, they are also often using the Internet at the same time. Advertisers need the consumer's attention in order to promote their products. But because getting this attention is harder than it used to be, advertisers have been forced to find new ways of reaching the consumer.

One unconventional place advertisements are popping up is in doctors' offices. In some doctors' offices, pharmaceutical companies advertise products on everything from boxes of tissues to the paper covering the exam table. Doctors get free products, and the advertisers get the consumers' attention. Similarly, advertisements are becoming more common in schools. "Free" products such as book covers and educational posters are offered by companies so that the company can advertise on these materials. In the U.S., a company called Channel One broadcasts a ten-minute news program followed by two minutes of commercials each day in 350,000 schools. Because the schools show these news programs, the companies give them thousands of dollars worth of much needed audiovisual equipment.

Advertisers have found that one of the best ways to get consumer attention is to place ads in unusual places. So, ads are popping up in all kinds of unexpected places like pizza boxes, grocery carts, air sickness bags on airplanes, and even on pieces of food like bananas and apples. A television network recently imprinted its logo on 35 million eggs. They called the approach "egg-vertisements."

One of the strangest developments in advertising has been people selling advertising space on themselves! This mini-trend began in 2005 when a man offered his face for advertising to the highest bidder on eBay. A pharmaceutical company won the spot, paying the man $37,375 to place a temporary sticker on his forehead to advertise one of their products. He may have been the first to offer such an unusual exchange, but he was not the last.

- After Reading
1. The average person is exposed to between 400 and 600 advertisements each day.
 2. TV commercials, newspaper ads, and magazine ads are traditional advertising approaches.
 3. Selling advertising space on one's body is a strange development in advertising.
 4. Buzz marketing is considered the sneakiest form of advertising.

Perhaps the sneakiest form of advertising is called buzz marketing. This involves a company hiring people to create excitement about a product. In exchange for free products or money, these people pretend to talk about the product spontaneously in everyday settings to people they meet in their daily lives. Sometimes professional actors are even hired to pose as users of the product. If the technique is done correctly, the consumers do not even know that they were the target of buzz marketing. Lately, buzz marketing has been spreading to chat rooms, Internet forums, and blogs.

Wherever we go, advertisements seem to follow. Unless you're reading this article on a desert island, there's probably an advertisement close by. And there seems to be no limit to the lengths advertisers will go to in order to catch our attention. In the years ahead, we can expect advertisers to come up with even more creative, surprising, and outlandish forms of advertising in their ongoing efforts to grab our attention—and our wallets!

After Reading

1. How many advertisements is the average person exposed to each day?
2. What are traditional advertising approaches?
3. What does the author of the article consider to be one of the strangest developments in advertising?
4. What does the author consider to be the sneakiest form of advertising?

9 Speaking

1. Work in pairs/groups. Think about advertising that is used to address adults, teenagers, and young children in your country. Decide on 2-3 products and/or services for each age group. Which advertisements are more memorable, in your view?
2. Talk about the slogans, images, and methods/techniques used in these advertisements and make notes in the chart. Then use your notes to discuss your ideas in class.

Target group	Product/service 1	Product/service 2	Method/technique
Adults
Teenagers
Young children

10 Writing

1 student's answer
2 students answer

- A. 1. Do you enjoy writing by hand? Why? Why not?
 2. Do you think handwriting is a useful skill? Why? Why not?
 3. Read the text and find out.
- What does handwriting involve?
 - Why are some people not keen on writing by hand?
 - What can specialists find out about someone through his or her handwriting?
 - Why is word-processing popular?
 - Which types of tests are mentioned? What is the difference between them?
 - What is the writer's viewpoint on the issue? Do you agree or disagree? Why?

Is handwriting obsolete?

Handwriting involves forming letters with a writing implement. Proper handwriting, i.e. cursive writing, normally requires formal training that is still in place in some schools. Naturally, at initial literacy levels young learners are trained to manipulate a writing implement and develop their eye-hand coordination so they can form letters.

As learners get older, however, they are more reluctant to write. One of the reasons mentioned is the fact that most people word-process, making handwriting unnecessary. Even older adults that used to have a distinct handwriting style often claim to have lost the ability to write smoothly and evenly. So is handwriting obsolete? Should we forget about it?

Handwriting has been a very distinct identifying feature. It represents the writer in more ways than one. Graphologists analyze handwriting to determine character traits, gender, personality, and emotional state or to authenticate documents. Allowing it to truly become obsolete would remove an identity marker that has been regarded quite highly in historical and personal terms. Handwritten notes of prominent authors are coveted by collectors, who will often pay exorbitant amounts to possess them.

On the other hand, most of us will invariably use a computer when we write. It is fast and efficient, and it makes editing so much easier. You can delete, copy, paste, store versions of your work throughout stages of editing for later reference; you can spell-check and search for words or alternative expressions. Compared to all these advantages, handwriting seems so restricting and restricted that most computer literate people limit it to scribbling notes for someone or filling in forms that are not available in electronic form.

Tests, you might argue, require handwriting. Some do and some are computer-based; it is true, however, that a substantial number of pen and paper tests require writing by hand within a set time limit. "Rusty" handwriting is likely to affect the final score.

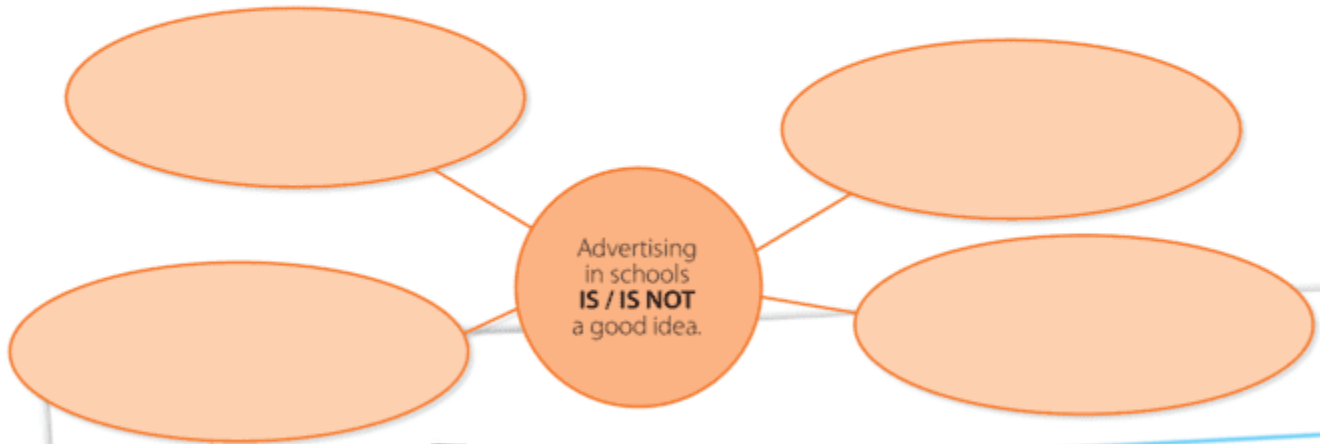

Overall, there seems to be some resistance to the total and unbroken hegemony of the computer, indicating that people do not want to become totally reliant on it. They are keen to hang on to some of the more tangible aspects of literate life that can be manipulated and accessed without the help of a device, such as reading books or writing by hand.

In view of the above, we would have to consider a more inclusive standpoint that allows us to exploit technological advances, while maintaining the ability to write with a simple implement on a surface for someone to read. Being able to record ideas, information, and messages in a self-sufficient and independent manner allows us to control the action itself and continue being masters of our expression.

4. Read the text again and identify:
- thesis statements
 - supporting statements
5. What are some of the differences between this text and an expository essay?

- B. 1. Decide whether or not you support advertising in schools.
2. Think about reasons why advertising in schools is a good or bad idea. Use an organizer to write down your ideas.
3. Write a letter to your local newspaper about this topic, trying to convince the reader that your view is correct.

Dear Editor,

In response to last week's article about the rights and wrongs of advertising in schools, I am writing to give you my opinion on why I think it is a positive thing.

First of all, having adverts in and around the school gives teachers the opportunity to teach students about the field of marketing and advertising

Moreover, ...

To sum up, ...

Writing Corner

When you write a letter to communicate your opinion and feelings on a controversial topic:

- start with an appropriate greeting: Dear Editor, Dear Sir or Madam, Dear Mr. Jones.
- state clearly the reason why you are writing and give your general opinion on the topic.
- state your reasons for your opinion by giving reasons and/or examples.
- organize your reasons into clear paragraphs. Each paragraph should start with a sentence which gives the main reason (topic sentence). The paragraph should then be developed in such a way that you support the topic sentence with more details and examples.
- use connectors to list your main reasons: Moreover, ...; In addition, ...; Additionally, ...; What's more, ...; Last but not least, ... and so on.
- to express your opinion, uses phrases such as: In my opinion, ...; From my point of view, ...; As far as I'm concerned, ...; I strongly believe that, ...
- ask yourself what objections your readers might have to your ideas and use phrases to express a general opinion such as: Most people think that ...; Everyone knows that ...; Most people support/ oppose the idea...
- select features and benefits that you can present to overcome these objections.
- do not forget to write a conclusion carefully, going back to your initial thesis statement and summarizing your facts/arguments. Use phrases such as: To sum up, ...; In conclusion, ...; To conclude, ... and so on.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Conditional Sentences with Present and Future Forms

You can use conditional sentences with if to talk about causes and results.

Present Facts

Use the simple present tense in both clauses.

Our bottles are recyclable. If you drink Crystal Spring water, not only do you feel more energetic but you help the environment.

Future Facts

Use the simple present in the if-clause and the future with be going to or will in the result clause.

If you drive the BMX-300, people will notice and admire you.

If you have dull and lifeless hair, Floral Essence shampoo will make it healthy and shiny.

You won't feel your best, if your clothes don't look their best.

May/Might

Use may/might in the result clause to suggest something is possible, but not certain.

If you haven't yet worn Planet Mercury sneakers, you may not be performing to your best ability. Put your feet in them today to see what you can do!

I'd Rather / I'd Prefer

Use I'd rather (= I would rather) to talk about preferences.

A: Would you prefer to go shopping or stay home?

B: I'd rather go shopping.

A: I'd prefer to stay home. I don't want to spend all my money.

A. Complete the sentences about facts. Use the simple present or will in the second clause.

- If you heat (heat) water to 100°C, it boils (boil).
- If they climb (climb) up to 4,000 meters, they need (need) oxygen.
- Unless you stop (stop) spending, you will be (be) completely broke before the end of the month.

B. Work with a partner. Say what happens, will happen, or might happen in the following situations.

- If children see a lot of toy commercials on TV, they might want them.
- If there is a sale at my favorite store, I will buy the black jacket.
- If I leave my wallet or cell phone at home, I will face troubles.
- If you get top marks at school, will give you a present.
- If I see an advertisement on TV, If I travel to Dubai, I will go shopping.
- Your idea: _____

C. Work with a partner. Ask and answer. Would you rather buy clothes online or at the mall? Why?

Words Connected with Shopping Habits

Some words connected with different ways of shopping are:

Shopping Mall	Small Stores	Online Shopping
wide range of products	friendly service	convenient discounts	neighborhood	door-to-door delivery
food courts	helpful staff	fast
entertainment	appealing atmosphere	wide range of products
luxury	convenient location	pay by card

Small, neighborhood stores offer a friendly, personal service.

Luxurious shopping malls provide entertainment, food and good discounts on products.

Online shopping is becoming more and more popular as it's convenient, fast and you can pay by credit card.

Conditional Sentences with When and Unless

Use when in place of if to talk about general truths. Use the present tense in both clauses.

When you press the button, the washing machine turns off.

When water reaches 100 °C, it boils.

You can use the word unless in place of if in negative sentences.

Unless I study hard, I won't get top marks.

Unless you exercise, you probably won't lose weight.

Unless you study harder, you will fail the test.

D. Read the advertisements. Work with a partner and persuade him or her to buy the product. Use sentences with when, if and unless

💡 When you brush your teeth with Sparkle toothpaste, your teeth will be cleaner and brighter. If you buy this toothpaste, your teeth will look great. If you don't buy this toothpaste, you might need to visit the dentist. Unless you buy this toothpaste, your teeth will look terrible.

E. Work with a partner. Talk about your preferences and give some reasons. Use conditional sentences in the present or future.

💡 I'd prefer to go the mall. If we go to the mall, we can also have lunch in the restaurant.

1. local store/ the mall
2. e-learning/ classroom
3. get a job/ go to college
4. buy a motorbike/ buy a car
5. visit Dubai/ Muscat

12 Project

1. Work in pairs/groups. Think about the advertisements that you see, watch, or hear every day. They can be billboards, advertisements in magazines or newspapers, TV commercials, radio advertisements, leaflets, stickers, etc.
2. Choose one that you think is beneficial and helpful to people.
3. Discuss and identify the product or service that is being advertised, the target group, the text/script or slogan that is being used, the image, and the message that the advertisement is trying to get across. Make notes in the chart.
4. Create a new advertisement for the product. Use a different medium. If for example, you have chosen a magazine advertisement, you might want to develop a TV advertisement for the same product or service. Use your notes to help you.
5. If you decide to create a TV advertisement, remember to make a storyboard. If, on the other hand, you have decided to create a radio advertisement with people talking to each other, remember to write a script. Finally, if you decide to design a magazine or billboard advertisement, make sure you prepare a sample with photos, colors, special fonts, etc.
6. Role-play. Take on the roles of advertising teams and clients (company executives of the product or service). Each advertising team has to present their new advertisement to the clients in a convincing manner so they can persuade them to agree to it.

Product/service:	Existing advertisement		New advertisement
The medium	Billboard Magazine Newspaper	Radio TV Other: _____	Billboard Magazine Newspaper	Radio TV Other: _____
The target group
The text/script or slogan
The image/design
The message
Special features/details

5. Many people assume that since women have babies, and men don't, women probably have a greater ability to deal with pain. However, the research seems to indicate that, due to their body chemistry, women actually have lower tolerance for pain. During recovery after surgery, women tend to experience pain with greater frequency and intensity than men do.
6. Women outlive men all around the world, sometimes by an average of as much as 10 years. For example, in the U.S., the average life expectancy is about 79 for women, but only 72 for men. The gap is largest among people who live to be 100 or older. Worldwide among people 100 or older, women outnumber men 9 to 1.

3 Grammar

Verbs + Infinitives or Gerunds with Different Meanings

Some verbs can be followed by either a gerund or an infinitive, but the verb + gerund and the verb + infinitive have different meanings. These verbs are remember, forget, regret, stop, and try.

He always remembers to send his grandparents a gift on special holidays. (remember + infinitive = remember to do a task)

He remembers sending gifts last year. (remember + gerund = remember having done something in the past)

She sometimes forgets to call. (forget + infinitive = not remember to do a task)

I regret telling you my secret. (regret + gerund = wish it were possible to undo something done in the past)

We stopped to watch the sunset. (stop + infinitive = stop doing something in order to do something else)

We stopped watching the sunset. (stop + gerund = stop doing something)

I tried to reach them, but they didn't answer the phone. (try + infinitive = make an attempt to do something)

I tried reaching them by email. (try + gerund = try a specific method to reach a goal)

Passive Forms of Infinitives and Gerunds

The passive form of an infinitive is: to + be + past participle.

Everybody wants to be respected by somebody.

The passive form of a gerund is being + past participle.

Being asked to settle an argument can be awkward.

Auxiliary Verbs after But and And

When an addition is made to a statement with but or and, often the main verb is not repeated. Instead, it is replaced with an auxiliary verb.

but + subject + auxiliary

My sister isn't good at remembering special occasions, but my mother is.

John doesn't get frustrated easily, but Sam does.

and + subject + auxiliary + too (for positive sentences) or either (for negative sentences)

He enjoys outdoor activities, and his son does too.

- Attendant: I know this town like the back of my hand, and I can tell you that there's no street by that name. Do you mean Riverside Drive?
- Faisal: Oh, yeah! That must be it. I just got the street name wrong.
- Fahd: Can you tell us how to get there?
- Attendant: It's not far. It's just over on the other side of town. You need to turn left out of here. Then go straight for a couple of miles. Keep going until you see an ice-cream shop. If you pass Town Hall, you've gone too far. Take the first left after the ice-cream shop and you'll be on Riverside Drive.
- Faisal & Fahd: Thanks!
- Fahd: I guess it's a good thing I suggested we stop for directions. We would have been driving in circles for ages.
- Faisal: Don't make a big deal about it. I'm sure I would have figured it out eventually.

Real Talk

You can say that again. = I agree with you completely.

5 Listening

Listen to the morning news show discussion about the different strategies used by new and experienced drivers. Then answer true or false. If the sentence is false, rewrite it with the correct information.

1. ____ Kevin Shields is the host of the show.
2. ____ The book they are discussing was written a long time ago.
3. ____ New and experienced drivers use different driving strategies.
4. ____ Experienced drivers seem to be better able to deal with difficult situations.
5. ____ Older drivers' reflexes are as fast as younger drivers'.
6. ____ New drivers tend to get more stressed and frightened when dealing with a dangerous situation.
7. ____ Experienced drivers normally have lower insurance premiums than new drivers.

6 Pronunciation

Tag questions are short questions added to the ends of sentences. If the tag question uses rising intonation, the speaker isn't sure of the statement and is looking for information. If the tag question uses falling intonation, the speaker is sure of the statement and is expecting confirmation. Listen and repeat. Then check whether the sentence has rising or falling intonation.

- | | Rising Intonation | Falling Intonation |
|---|-------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| 1. So this means that experienced drivers have better reflexes, doesn't it? | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 2. So then it seems neither group has a total advantage in such cases, do they? | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 3. That's true, isn't it? | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 4. That's a bit unfair for new drivers, isn't it? | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 5. So each group is the better driver in their own way, aren't they? | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |

Before Reading

In what ways do you think men and women communicate differently?

Do Men and Women Speak the Same Language?

The difference in the ways that men and women communicate has been the subject of countless books, magazine articles, talk show discussions, and jokes. These differences can sometimes make men and women seem mysterious to each other, and can occasionally make communication difficult and confusing. People often jokingly say that men and women are from different planets or that they are different species. But just what are these communication differences and what is their cause?

One basic reason men and women have such different ways of communicating is that they see the purpose of communication differently. Research shows that women use communication as a way of growing closer to people and establishing intimate relationships. Women tend to use language to share thoughts and feelings, and to be supportive. Meanwhile, men tend to see the goal of communication as accomplishing a task. Men most often use language to persuade, argue, convey facts, and demonstrate knowledge.

Although men do not tend to use communication to achieve closeness, they have their own way of bonding. In one study, 75 percent of the men surveyed said that their most meaningful experiences with friends came not through talking, but through shared activities. In a related study, researchers found that fathers tend to show affection to sons by helping them with tasks and challenges. Javier Morales's experiences certainly support this idea. Says Morales, "My dad and I are really close, but I wouldn't say we talk very much. We spend a lot of time together doing things. We spent all of last Saturday repairing my car, and this week we're going hiking together. My dad and I have a deep bond. Just because we're not talking doesn't mean we're not sharing important time together."

The content of what males and females talk about tends to be different as well. Researcher Deborah Tannen has found that while feminine talk tends to focus on feelings, relationships, and people, masculine talk tends to focus on sports, the economy, and facts.

Women talk to explore problems, but men do not. Instead, men talk to fix problems. This can sometimes cause problems in communication. Janet West, a freshman in college, remembers encountering this issue recently. "I told my brother Derek about a problem I was having with my studies. He immediately came up with possible solutions to the problem. Being told how to fix the problem was kind of frustrating because it wasn't what I was looking for. I asked him to stop trying to fix the problem and try talking with me about it instead. He seemed completely confused and said, 'Why bother talking about a problem unless you're trying to find a solution to it?'"

Another way in which men and women differ is in the way they listen. Research has shown that men tend to place all of their attention on one thing at a time, but women do not. Instead, women commonly divide their attention between a number of things at once and make connections between these different things. Since this comes so easily to women, they are sometimes frustrated when men struggle to do this. For example, a common complaint among women is that when a man is watching television, he often doesn't hear a question asked by the person sitting right beside him. Sakura Kumi has witnessed this many times in her house. Sakura says, "My mother used to get so frustrated trying to get my father's attention while he was watching TV, and I did too. So she got into the habit of standing in front of the TV and saying, 'Hiroshi, I'm about to ask you a question.' It's become sort of a family joke."

Research has shown that these communication differences can be partially explained by the different ways in which the male and female brains are structured and wired. For example, the left side of the brain, where logic and literal thinking are processed, tends to be stronger in men. Meanwhile, women tend to think with the right side, which is where comprehension is processed. The female brain also has more connections between the right and left sides, so their thought process is likely to be more complex.

Research has also shown that the different ways that boys and girls are raised has a significant impact on how they communicate. Girls are raised to recognize and be sensitive to the feelings of others. On the other hand, boys are taught to be more direct and goal-oriented. Being raised in such different ways is bound to create two different styles of communication.

While the differences in the way men and women communicate can sometimes cause confusion, these differences are also what help maintain a balance in communication. It ensures that a variety of topics and viewpoints are explored, feelings are expressed, and problems are discussed and solved. This balance is what makes communication so rich and interesting.

After Reading

1. Women see communication as a way of establishing intimacy. Men use communication to accomplish a task.
2. Men often bond through shared activities.
3. Men often talk about sports, the economy, and facts. Women often talk about feelings, relationships, and people.
4. Women talk to explore problems, but men talk to solve problems.
5. Male and female brains are wired differently, and men and women are raised to behave differently.

Answer the questions.

1. What do women see as the purpose of communication? What about men?
2. How are men most likely to bond with others?
3. How does the content of men and women's talk tend to differ?
4. How do men and women approach problems differently?
5. What causes men and women to communicate differently?

Thesis statement: the second half of the first paragraph; Language is our ...means of communication

Supporting paragraphs: paragraphs 2 to 6.

Arguments:

- Describing as opposed to looking at a photograph of the center of town (par.2)
- Showing or telling a friend about a new gadget (par. 3)
- Situations where verbal language is required, for example when running into someone you haven't seen for a long time (par. 4)
- Having to communicate with someone at a distance/at the airport to get his phone number (par. 5)
- According to studies 60% of communication is carried out through non-verbal means. (par. 6)

4 - A picture shows and represents so much that would otherwise require a lot of time, effort and words to explain and even then one might not do as good a job.

Verbal and non-verbal communication

When people talk about communication, the first thing that comes to mind is words or language. Language is our primary means of communication as human beings, which sets us apart from other species. However, as studies have shown, it is not the only means of communication.

Think about a photograph taken in the center of a town. It provides information about the buildings, stores and services, people and cars, plants, and all kinds of details if you choose to take the time to look at it more carefully. Now try describing the picture and everything you have identified in it to your friend or write about it. How long do you think it's going to take you? Certainly a lot longer than it takes a photo to convey the same amount of information.

Suppose that you have just acquired the latest electronic gadget. Would you choose to tell your friend about it or show it to him or her? Usually, we choose to do the latter, i.e. show it to somebody and point out all the new, amazing features. In other words, pictures and objects can "speak for themselves" more efficiently and effectively than we can through verbal language.

However, there are situations where a different type of interaction is required, when, for example, you run into somebody you have not seen for some time. You probably want to talk about everything that has happened, ask him/her questions, and talk about people you know, and so on. This is definitely a case that requires verbal language.

On a partly different note, you see a friend you have not seen for some time at a distance, e.g. different escalators at the airport leading to different lounges. You have both checked through security and cannot go back; and you certainly don't want to start shouting across the airport building. You want to get his/her cell phone number. You probably resort to gesturing by holding your hand next to your ear and pretending to talk; you point to the "phone," point to your friend and use a hand gesture to signal "What?" pointing back to the imaginary phone. Your friend signals each number by holding up the appropriate number of fingers.

In other words, although language is important and allows us to communicate facts, feelings, thoughts, experiences, and practically everything and anything that we are interested in, it is not the only way we communicate with each other. As studies have shown, about 60 percent of human communication is carried out through non-verbal means, e.g. facial expression, gestures, or illustration. Maybe we should keep this in mind when we are "at a loss for words": our eyes and overall expression can convey what we cannot express through words.

Present Perfect Progressive versus Present Perfect Simple

Use the present perfect progressive to say how long something has been happening.

Use the present perfect simple to say how many things have been done or how many times something has been done.

Present Perfect Progressive

Sandy and Amal have been discussing the differences in behavior between men and women for 2 hours.

How long have you been discussing stereotypes?

Saeed has been driving since early this morning.

How long have you been driving?

Use the present perfect progressive to talk about an annoying action or situation.

I haven't slept at all. My phone has been ringing all night.

Who's been eating the cakes? There is only one left!

Present Perfect Simple

They have decided that women talk about feelings more than men.

How many times have you discussed this issue?

He has driven 400 miles.

How many different models of car have you driven?

Time Expressions with the Present Perfect Progressive: How long, for, since, all day/ all week/ all month/ all year

They've been talking for over an hour. The children are getting bored.

A. Ask and answer questions about the picture. It's been raining for ten minutes. What have the people been doing during this time? Use the present perfect progressive and the present perfect simple.

A: What has the man at the magazine stand been doing during the rain?

B: He's been reading.

A: How many magazines has he read?

B: He's read several magazines.

Answer A

- A: What has the lady at the taxi been doing during the rain?

Before Reading

1. Do you think it is easy for people to make real friends online? Why? Why not?
2. Do you text or call people you know? What kind of language do you use in each case?

The impact of a changing world on human language and communication

Recent research on the impact of online communication across cultures in Europe has revealed some very interesting findings.

Although, social networking and online communication has become the norm among young people nowadays, the formation of lasting friendships among peers appears to require face-to-face communication.

The project involved communication with partner schools in different countries. According to project participants, online communication and information exchange was effective for a period of time and undoubtedly provided the input and information needed. However, when it came to the formation of long-term friendships, they strongly felt that face-to-face communication was a key requirement; as was mobility, in other words travel to different countries.

The way one of the participants put it, "It's different to find out about each other's culture through reading, talking about it and exchanging pictures or videos, and different to actually experience it in person. It's the day-to-day things that tell you more about people and their mindset." These conclusions were reached after participants visited the countries where partner schools were located. As funding was limited, not all project participants were able to join.

All interviewees appreciated the accessible and affordable opportunities offered through technology and online communication but stressed the need for communication beyond cyberspace. Interestingly, young people nowadays take cyberspace for granted and consider more conventional, real world experiences to be more creative and rewarding. Overall, the conclusion reached pointed out that although technology "connects" people, lasting friendships require face-to-face contact to make initial connections more meaningful. This was further confirmed by the diminishing interest and involvement of the participants that had not been able to travel.

As expected, English was used as the common medium of communication. Project participants admitted to having been intimidated and reluctant to initiate conversation due to their language "inadequacies." They soon found out that none of their peers from other countries were perfect either, but were only too willing to utilize all available resources to speak. So they quickly revised their views on language competence and stopped being over-concerned with potential "errors."

The task at hand required them to communicate with people that they had previously communicated with through email and video conferencing, under more controlled circumstances with teacher support, and time to check and edit their language. Face-to-face communication had to be spontaneous and genuine, so they were required to do their best, to listen, understand, and ask for clarification or repetition, use gestures or point to things if they could not recall words and so on. More importantly, their peers from other countries routinely resorted to the same strategies in conversation.

On occasion, when lost for words, their interlocutors would say: "text me"; this they could do without difficulty, using abbreviated language. They would then use the text message, as a basis to clarify meaning. Abbreviated language, this special kind of electronic shorthand, which often confuses older adults, is accessible to young people. In fact, it is the electronic variety of English as an international medium, and an identifying marker of generations that are natives to technology.

The context and means of communication do have an immediate impact on the type of language used. The need for speedy and highly economical messaging has fostered the development and evolution of "texting" language. Abbreviated language is regarded as a type of 'slang', categorizing it as a substandard variety of language. On the other hand, some analysts attest to the fact that it indicates high intelligence and speed of processing that should not be overlooked.

According to Professor Crystal, "text-speak", the combination of vowel-free abbreviations and acronyms, "has definitely been overhyped" and does not qualify as a new language.

When these issues were addressed in a focus group with high school students who had participated in the multicultural project, they were ready with clear and highly articulate answers. They agreed that context and circumstances impose the need for changes in communication and therefore the type of language used. They were pleased to be able to use abbreviated language in texting and messaging effectively and efficiently. However, they pointed out that they would very much like to develop their language and communication skills further in order to be able to operate in a different range of contexts. As one of the interviewees put it, "It wouldn't be a good idea to use abbreviated language in term papers when I get to university!"

After Reading

A. Complete the sentences with the words from the box.

norm	diminishing	utilize	interlocutor
abbreviated	intimidated	acronym	overrated

- The disappointing results of the experiment were, unfortunately, caused by the researcher's diminishing enthusiasm and interest.
- Unfortunately, consuming too much fast food is the norm among young people, these days, not the exception.
- Although he had spent days preparing his presentation, he got so intimidated by the audience that he could hardly say a word.

- UAE is an acronym. It stands for United Arab Emirates.
- A good communicator always tries to facilitate his interlocutor.
- Young people use abbreviated language in texting.
- People used to think that computers were vastly overrated as a home appliance.

B. Answer the questions.

- What were the conclusions of research on the impact of online communication across cultures?
- What did the project participants believe about lasting friendships?
- What was the main difference between participants who travelled to different countries and those who didn't?
- How did the project participants feel about their language competence to begin with? Why?
- Which factors fostered the development of "texting" language?
- What did high school students believe about different types of language? Why?

Answer B

- Although young people communicate online, face-to-face communication is still very important for the formation of lasting friendships.
- Project participants believed that face-to-face communication and mobility were requirements for the formation of long-term friendships.
- Participants who travelled were more highly motivated, interested and enthusiastic and had the opportunity to experience different cultures in person. Those who didn't, gradually lost interest.

Tools for Writing: Run-on Sentences

A run-on sentence is a sentence with two or more independent clauses that are incorrectly placed together without any punctuation or a coordinating conjunction.

Incorrect: You look in the cafeteria I'll look in the auditorium.

Run-on sentences can be avoided by using a period to separate the clauses into two separate sentences, or by adding a coordinating conjunction after a comma.

Correct: You look in the cafeteria. I'll look in the auditorium.

Correct: You look in the cafeteria, and I'll look in the auditorium.

Correct each run-on sentence in two different ways.

1. The weather has been great it has been warm.
2. She can't make it she has other plans.
3. He's tired he doesn't want to stay out late.
4. I understood the lesson I can help you.

1. The weather has been great. It has been warm. / The weather has been great, and it has been warm.
2. She can't make it. She has other plans. / She can't make it, for she has other plans.
3. He's tired. He doesn't want to stay out late. / He's tired, so he doesn't want to stay out late.
4. I understood the lesson. I can help you. / I understood the lesson, and I can help you.

Writing Prompt

Write an essay about tales involving animals in your culture. Include grammar points from Units 4, 5, and 6.

Write Your Essay

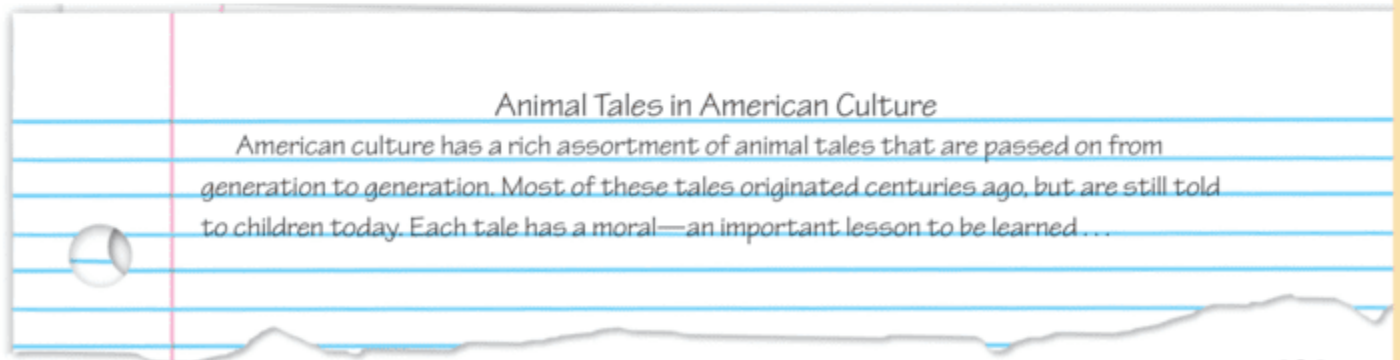

1. Think about the following questions: Where did the tale originate? What is the significance of the tale? Is there a moral?
2. Use a chart to organize your ideas. In the first column, write two or three tales about animals that you are interested in learning more about. Research these tales. Then write notes about the origin of each in the second column. Use these notes when you write your essay.
3. Write an outline for your essay, and then write a draft.
4. Have a partner read and comment on your draft. Use your partner's comments and suggestions to revise your essay.

Animal Tale	Origin of the Tale

Developing Your Writing: Outlining an Essay

Writers use outlines to help them organize their thoughts before they begin writing. Outlines show the order in which topics will be introduced. They also include categories and subcategories to show the relationship between the different parts of the essay. Outlines are usually arranged from general points to more specific points. Outlines are also usually arranged by a system of numbers and letters, as in the example below.

- I. Introduction
 - A. There are numerous tales about animals in American culture.
 - B. These tales often teach an important lesson/moral.
- II. Body
 - A. First tale: The Tortoise and the Hare
 1. origins of the tale
 2. significance/moral of the tale
 - B. Second tale: The Lion and the Mouse
 1. origins of the tale
 2. significance/moral of the tale
- III. Conclusion
